About This Game

Let us live

on this land so arid.

KARAKARA. It is the sound of aridity. It is the sound of dry asphalt and sandy winds. It is the sound of relentless sunshine, as well as the sound of a withering race.

The "Age of Dusk." It is a time of senescence for the human species, during which hybrids known as the "Others"—those who are human, yet not—exist in great numbers. On the windswept barrens of a land without moisture, a small gathering of people make their living in a world they no longer know. Down a stretch of highway and far from the heart of the town are two such people who run a small diner. To them, the circumstances that reshaped their world is of far less concern than the number of lunch boxes they can load into their delivery vehicle. After all, leaving customers hungry is not good for business, and business keeps them fed. Day after day, they occupy themselves with the endless work of their store. However, the comfortable monotony of their daily lives is turned on its head when they discover a large suitcase by the roadside on their way home from deliveries. Lying on the suitcase, unmoving, is a young girl with pink hair...

Though parched, they keep each other company, and while hollow, they fill each other's voids.

So shall they live

on this land so arid.

- Module & Sidhe. This game for me is a tale of two halves, it has its positives but mostly negatives.

Positives:

Ability to take over services at designated stations

Career mode-esque

Ability to continue driving the service once the terminus has been reached

Some physics

Negatives

Water and leaves coming through the train windows....

Sound pack is awful, its the same both inside and out of the train

Awful graphics

Interface is awful

This is so sad, as many of the features I have listed as an issue on this game were dealt with rather well in the London Underground version they made, which is MUCH better.. It's been a long time since any game made such an impression on me and it's one of the best games I know about zombies (except Telltale's Walking Dead). Playing this game was like an interactive movie, but you make the choices. I can fully recommend it not only for "The Walking Dead" universe fans, but to all people who like visual novels.. Theatre of War 2 isn't a fun game. It is a diehard realistic tactical warfare simulator-RTS. There are people who enjoy these kind of unwieldy games, for example people who like to play ARMA or people who like to play Hearts of Iron.

This is not for everyone, but if you are one of those aforementioned people, you will have a blast with this.. Well,well,another tower defense game, now with graphics copied from castle defense & kingdom rush. Wise choice devs, many gamers love this kind of game and me including.. This tech demo consists of several barely VR-optimized environments from DeusEx game. It's filled with distracting aliasing artefacts and awful distortion effects.. The game mechanic is quite complex yet new to use it. Played the first tutorial and not sure why it deals 1 more damage while the other combination doesn't. Quite confusing with the help as such I just skip it. @_@

The other cons would be the animation is not smooth whereby you can see it quite slow motion.

In summary, the game mechanics are too overwhelmed and complex.
. Extremely underwhelming. A really good game with really good characters.
A really good story with really good music.
Y'all shall play it!
It's amazing.
And... Don't forget to smile. ; -)

Better install and search for yourself the latest drivers if you don't want troubles with incompatibility. This app installs drivers even if they are not compatible with the hardware and creates incompatibility. Don't recommend it!. this is the most unique adventure game i ever have played!!!! it is sooo amazing! the graphic design is freaking good, the story is weird and mysterious but so interesting. seems like an adaption of mexican gods, like the graphics are in an aztec style, even the language is its own art piece..sounded also pretty like the fantasy version of old mexican language before they spoke latin. and the logic seems like you are on acid, but by accepting the surreal world and its logics you get a pretty nice trip.
since dream machine the best art piece (underlining the word art) in the adventure genre. exactly what i have been looking for so long - a really special and unique adventure game that mixes up the usual ways of logic with unique graphic style please let it become more famous!!!

i am so excited to play more gnarled scar manipulations games like this!

. I love 2D games, and also I like this kind of game, fenimore make me happy is so funny all that he does. First mission has invincible dogs that you can barely see because they blend in with the background.

Hiding mechanic is bugged: I literally got stuck in a dumpster and had to quit the game.

New character is seemingly useless.

Now has objectives: no more "just rip everyone apart."

Soundtrack has been butchered even worse than your victims.

STAY AWAY!. awesome little game -- i like it :-). BEUUUUUUURRRRRRRRRRR! motion sicknesss.....
BEUUURRRRRRRRRRR
